

'We have the opportunity to Make a Difference'

For more than 35 years, attorney Margaret Gettle Washburn has provided her clients with the highest level of legal experience and expertise. Her firm, located in Lawrenceville and serving clients throughout Gwinnett County and the surrounding areas, brings their knowledge and client-first focus to every case and every individual represented – always committed to achieving positive results for their clients.

Ms. Washburn and her team understand that responsiveness is important in every client relationship and that all cases are different. "We have the opportunity to make a difference in people's lives. The actions we take on their behalf affect their families, their finances, and in some cases, their freedom. We take the trust they've placed in us very seriously," she says.

Ms. Washburn and the firm's attorneys, which include her son, Houston Washburn, and Scott Mitchell, focus on family law, personal injury, estate planning and probate, and criminal defense. "We feel privileged to represent families and small businesses in our community. We apply the latest technology and innovative legal solutions with an old-school approach to client service and representation," says Margaret.

Margaret is a Past President of the Gwinnett County Bar Association and the Georgia Council of Municipal Court Judges. She currently sits as the Chief Judge for the City of Sugar Hill and as a Duluth Municipal Court Associate Judge. Ms. Washburn has served as a Municipal Court Judge for over 30 years.
